Prevention of Industrial Sickness

- Industrial sickness is a major hindrance to economic growth as it results in locking up resources, wastage of capital assets, loss of production and increase in unemployment. A number of factors both internal and external are responsible for industrial sickness.
- A detailed survey was made to identify the reasons for sickness in small scale industries in the state and an exclusive policy for rehabilitation of sick units has been prepared for providing special package of incentives.
- Besides the above, continuous monitoring will be made to identify incipient sickness for prevention of industrial sickness
